OFFICE—In the new Post Office Building,
Merchant Street, Honolulu, H. I.

Saturday Night.

During the little time left to you,
Ready for church or the concert, you know,
Washing was there and little black dots,
Gathering their ready and to be known;
Putting them into clean garments and white,
That is what mothers are doing to-night.

Saying to each other in the little room how,
Loving by those who are more and more thin—
Looking the garments as folded and thin—
Waiting a mother's kiss where it begins?
Coming a button to make it look right—
That is what mothers are doing to-night.

Calling the little ones all round her chair,
Hearing them sing their soft evening prayer,
Telling the stories of Jesus of old,
Whom to gather the letters to his side;
Waiting, they listen with anxiety delighted—
That is what mothers are doing to-night.

Thinking so kindly to take a last peep,
After the little ones are all gone;
Again to know if the children are warm,
Thinking the blanket round each little form;
Kissing with little love, very bright—
That is what mothers are doing to-night.

Kneeling down gently beside the white bed,
Loving and hushing the sweet dreamer dead;
Praying for only a mother's love,
And gentle and keep them from going astray."

Variety.

How to get along in the world—never get short.

The favorite cape in Massachusetts—Cape C. O. I.

What is home without a sewing machine?—silence.

To keep the Indians quiet requires considerable ingenuity.

"Home-sweet, sweet home," as the bee said when he entered his hive.

"A cabin," said an Irishman, "is a house that a man lives in when he is dead."

A man in Chicago announces himself as the Methodist candidate for constable.

Dell, N. Y., is delighted at the prospect of having its streets lighted with gas.

An arch young lady should be an archer, for she can bend her bow as she pleases.

When does the captain of a ship become a medical man? When he's docked her.

It is a noticeable fact that the deepest miners go down in England, the highest up goes.

Tommy extricated his mother for saying that he was all over dirt. The dirt was all over him.

The man most likely to make his mark in the world—she who cannot write his own name.

A deaf and dumb man entered a Peoria saloon and wrote on his slate: "Give me 10 P.M."

The announcement that "truth is strange than fiction" is said to depend chiefly upon who tells it.

Little Dick has a good notion as in the coming of life—they always begin on a small scale.

Manufacturing is said to be the poorest paying business, because it takes ten weeks to make one cent.

Just as several Wall street men were thinking of doing Japan, the Mikado has prohibited kite-flying.

The season is approaching when drinking men, as well as drowning men, will catch at straws—drunken.

What is the difference between a cloud and a boisterous child? One pours with rain, and the other pours with pain.

What is the difference between a sailor and a beer-drinker? One puts his sail up, and the other puts his sail down.

A Dunberry bride received among her wedding gifts a receipt bill of eight dollars for garters from her father.

An editor, who always looks on the dark side of everything, is lamenting because the weather is likely to kill all the rattlesnakes.

The Dunberry News says: The use of tobacco is a disgusting habit. It weakens the frame, betrays the faculties, and, what is far worse, keeps up the price.

The Savannah Advertiser marvels that "sweet young ladies can tell six." It must be refreshing to live in a community where this sort of thing produces any surprise.

The Troy Press says with truth that the English are surpass in the detection of criminals.

But what is this compared to our immeasurable superiority in the production of them?

A young lady in Greeneville, Tenn., recently presented her lover with an elaborately-constructed pet-supper, and was astonished the following Sunday to see him wearing it as a cravat.

A student, undergoing his examination, was asked what was the mode of action of disinfectants. He replied: "They smell so bad that the people often open the windows, and the fresh air gets in."

A reporter for a Wisconsin paper writes:

"Those who personally know our esteemed fellow-citizens, Col. —, will regret to hear that he was brutally assaulted last evening, but not killed."

A Canadian infant, supposed to be deaf and dumb for five years, lately gave its first evidence of speech by breaking out in a series of horrifying oaths. It goes on to say that that his pretty chicken takes after its dam.

A fat fellow asked old Sir Francis Bondell, while in Parliament, for some position, saying, "Don't you remember me? I used to be a page."

"Well," responded Sir Francis, "you have grown into a volume."

In a recent case for assault, the defendant pleaded guilty: "I think I must be guilty," he said, "because the plaintiff and I were the only ones in the room, and the first thing I knew was that I was standing up, and he was doubled over the table. You'd better call it guilty."

An unfortunate Kentucky editor thus addresses his delinquent subscribers: "Friends, we are penniless. Job's turkey was a millionaire compared with our present depressed treasury. Today, if salt were two cents a barrel, we could not buy enough to pickle a Jay-bird."

"A Job's Comforter"—Irish ex-Major: "So, my boy, you are going to India? Unholy place, you know. The last station I was at and I've been issued with annual clothin' to the bone, and kept at necessities in store: and bedded, had a friend who was on a first party over a night of his company in the morning, and who died over himself in the evening, sir."
